

Giving people back to themselves through learning and development ... that's what we're about!!!

Results by Design (RbD) is a full-service training consulting organization providing integrated learning solutions to industry-leading clients worldwide. By thoroughly understanding our client's issues, needs and overall business strategy, we assist organizations by developing and implementing learning solutions that focus on unleashing human potential in order to achieve business excellence.

We do this by employing a holistic approach to consulting consisting of services ranging from needs assessment, content design, and delivery ... extending to more specialized offerings involving learning measurement, sustainment and long-term strategic planning.

At Results by Design, we are learning specialists in the areas of sales and service; leadership and teambuilding; and individual effectiveness with program offerings consisting of fully customized, tailored and branded solutions. When managing any intervention, our designers, facilitators and consultants continuously maintain focus "on the learner" such that they will be motivated "to do" and "to be" their best.

Regardless of the challenge, clients can count on RbD to support them in their success. By enabling achievement, inspiring excellence and ultimately, by "giving people back to themselves through learning and development", RbD helps clients to move their organizations forward with grace and ease.
